

THE EFFECTS OF POISON!

Some Startling Developments—Dangerous Drugs Worse Than Opium Smoking.

Views of Medical Authorities.

The Washington Post says: For centuries it has been contended that a cough medicine, to be effective, must contain morphia, opium or some other equally dangerous drug, and today nearly every cough medicine in the market has for its base one of these deadly poisons. In every State of the Union physicians and coroners are constantly reporting innumerable cases of poisoning and death resulting from such compounds. One authority states that these have done more injury than opium smoking. A purely vegetable and at the same time efficacious cough cure has been considered an impossibility. It is for this reason that eminent medical authorities and public men everywhere, like Dr. James A. Stewart, Health Commissioner of Baltimore, and Dr. Samuel K. Cox, of Washington, have spoken so enthusiastically of the discovery of Red Star Cough Cure, which is absolutely free from poisons or narcotics. Dr. O. Grothe, of the Brooklyn Board of Health, and heads of similar boards in other cities, are also among those who have issued official certificates in its favor.

Prof. John J. Caldwell, M. D., member of the Electro-Therapeutic Society, New York; Medical Society, Kings county (Brooklyn); Medical Society, Baltimore; for six years in civil and military hospitals; assistant surgeon U. S. Volunteers; author of "Electro Therapeutics," etc., certifies that very desirable new departure has been made by the introduction of Red Star Cough Cure; that in addition to the rare quality of being entirely vegetable and harmless, he finds it to be an ingenious compound, pleasant to take and of remarkable efficacy.

"WE HAVE USED IT."

To the Public:

From personal experience, as well as from observation of its marked efficacy in other cases that have come under our notice, we cheerfully recommend Red Star Cough Cure as a safe and reliable family medicine.

Combining the power to relieve and cure promptly, with the rare quality of being entirely free from opiates, poisons and narcotics, as demonstrated by the analysis of recognized medical authorities, it may justly be termed a valuable discovery.

We concur in the official opinion of the Commissioner of Health of Baltimore, that "it happily supplants the objectionable and not unfrequently harmful features of the other cough mixtures."

Over fifty physicians of Baltimore, including those of leading hospitals, charitable institutions, colleges and schools, have voluntarily endorsed Red Star Cough Cure, not only as the best thing of the kind ever discovered, but as being entirely free from the harmful features of other cough mixtures. Every one will find it a safe, sure cure. It is entirely free from opiates, narcotics, emetics and poisons. It leaves no bad effects. It does not derange the system. It is pure, pleasant, prompt. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicine throughout the United States at fifty cents a bottle. THE CHARLES A. VOGELER COMPANY, Sole Proprietors, Baltimore, Maryland.

GRAND ARMY GLEANINGS.

Particulars Pertaining to the Posts.

The Women's Relief Corps, at Humboldt, will give a dinner and supper on Saturday, April 4th. The occasion is to be observed as Shiloh day.

Fredonia Citizen.

The ladies of the Woman's Relief Corps, G. A. R., gave a most enjoyable festival at their hall recently. The entertainment was well attended and netted a snug sum.

The Grand Army boys from Sterling, who attended the encampment at Fort Scott recently, report that they had a splendid time at Wichita, going and coming they were treated right royally by the comrades of that city.

Phillipsburg Herald:

The Phillipsburg post No. 77, Grand Army of the Republic are preparing to render the play "Hal Hazard, or the Federal Spy," at the court-house some time in the fore part of April.

Sabetha Herald:

The G. A. R. and W. R. C. gave a joint reception and social at the G. A. R. hall last evening in honor of Mrs. T. W. Wickens, Department President of the W. R. C. of the State. This gathering was largely attended by friends of the post and corps, and was a pleasant innovation in the place of the regular Wednesday evening skate.

Manhattan Nationalist:

The Women's Relief Corps, of the G. A. R., netted $108 and some cents from the Cantata of Esther, last week. The entire receipts were $393.90, but, under the contract, the Director was entitled to half the net proceeds, and the hall rent and costumes cost considerable. The corps could now give this cantata in other places at less expense and make more money. Every one who heard it was much pleased.

Wonders Never Cease.

Prof. C. Donaldson, New Orleans, La., proprietor of museums, who suffered eighteen years with rheumatic pains, states he has spent ten thousand dollars to get cured. After trying doctors, fumes, baths, electric appliances and legions of liniments, without relief, he tried Dr. Jacobs Oil, which completely cured him. It is a wonderful remedy, he says, and he has sold his crutches.

BILL NYE ON DRUNKARDS.

He Makes to the Public a Fair Proposition.

In the matter of temperance, writes Bill Nye to the San Francisco Ingleside, I may say that no one would pick me out as a radical on either side of the question. It is my doctrine that the evil of intemperance will work its own destruction when the proper time comes. We may get pretty weary waiting for the day of emancipation, but it is certainly wiser to make the cause of temperance obvious by feeding it to the people day times, and then waking them up in the night to ask them if they have violated their solemn obligation. You may convince a rational human being, but you cannot teach him a great truth by painting it on any board fence in the civilized world, and then running him into the fence until you smashed his nose several times, and taught him to despise both you and the cause you represent.

The above solemn chunk of philosophy was written for me by a warm personal friend, who told me when I got tired of writing more froth and foam and foolishness for the amusement of a sorrowing world, and wished to put together a few sentences of sense to surprise the public with, he would be tickled to death to come around after office hours and write me a few without charge.

But it was not on the subject of temperance itself that I started out to speak. I desired to propound to the readers of The Ingleside a conundrum or query. It is this: Why is it that when a man becomes beastly drunk, idiotically inebriated, and hilariously full, he will start out at once with what remaining strength he may have to hunt jaw me up and converse with me till his lower jaw gets loose and falls off on the ground with a sickening thud?

Is it because I am good natured and show unusual conversational powers, or is it because the idea of hunting me up and associating with me does not occur to a man until he is very, very drunk?

However this may be, it is indeed a chilly day when I do not spend an hour or two in social converse with a man who is uproariously drunk, sleepy drunk, confidentially drunk, tearfully drunk, affectionately drunk, maudlin drunk, musically drunk, incoherently drunk, sorrowfully drunk, abjectly drunk, politically drunk, oratorically drunk, immoderately drunk, critically drunk, disorderly drunk, peacefully drunk, ornamentally drunk, or just simply drunk.

He may be in a neighboring State when the wild, ungovernable desire comes over him to put something in his mouth which will ultimately steal away his brains, unless he has taken the precaution to have them concealed about his person, but in the first stage of his inebriety he gets a ticket to where I am, and then he goes on with the debauch. He generally finds me at last, and he sails up to where I am and begins to converse. It seems to me that a great deal of my time is taken up conversing with parties who meet me on the street or at stations or in hotels, and then talk with me several hours at a time while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

I presume fifteen hundred men have held me by the hand and sworn that everything they had was at my service. Money, clothes, houses, jewelry, or anything else they had was none too good for me. Then they would wring my hand again and start to go away, but they would always return and take some more, and when I would swoon and fall over they would reluctantly go away. When I ventured to remind them the next day of their kind offer to supply me with funds they most generally failed to call to mind. Sometimes they ask me in an injured tone of voice if I expected to hold a man responsible for all the promises he makes to the innumerable common fools he meets while drunk.

So I desire to give notice in this public way that on and after this date I shall not hold any more open-air communications with common drunkards, and as I want to be perfectly fair and just toward all, I am willing to bind myself in a similar way not to try to converse with sober people while I may be drunk. Now, if there be anything unfair or unreasonable about this proposition I am willing to alter it, so that one can find fault with it. I want to do exactly what is right, and I do not require anything whatever of others that I am not perfectly willing myself to submit to.

A New Religion.

A new religion is announced by a Kalamazoo man, which he calls "Dietarianism." It is based in a paper—the Living Sun—which is as yet but one issue old. The belief is organized on the most liberal scale, and includes entertainment and instruction that "may pertain to theology, history, science, health, education or anything else." One feature of "Dietarianism" is that no follower can hope to escape from the priest, or "Denzee," who will visit him at least once a week, and collect a fee in proportion to the entertainment or instruction given. The new religion is furthermore provided with a new language, and will no doubt have attractions for such persons as desire novelty and variety.
